A PENNSYLVANIA TRAGEDY.

[From the Philadelphia Herald, June 9.]

Foxrows, Pa., June 8, 1876.
On the 29th ult. we published the particulars of a in mystery. Walter Gunn, a young music teacher, but a stranger in the place, left his boarding house on the He was found some hours later lying in the bottom of the boat, which had lodged on Legg's Island, two miles below. He was shot through the head. A revolver lay near his right hand, with two chambers empty. In his twenty years, at Piqua, Oh.o, and contained these words, written in a woman's hand:—"It is much bet-ter. God is wise." To this there was no signature. In the vest pocket of the deceased was found a piece

cil. "Inform James Passmore, Covington, Ky."

Letters were written to James Passmore, but no reply was received, and nothing further was learned of day James l'assmore came to the village. He had been days before had found the letters informing him of the suicide of walter Gunn. He cleared up the mystery surrounding the deceased by the following story:-

GUNN'S ANTECEDENTS. Walter Gunn was the son of a former rich and prominarrator made Gunn's acquaintance in that city, while travelling in Europe with his mother and cousin, Miss travelling in Europe with his mother and cousin, Miss Eliza Cliff, then seventeen years old. Passmore and Guin became warm friends, and the latter became one of the travelling party. An acquantiance between him and Miss Chiff ripened into love, and, with the consent of Mis. Passmore, the two were bethrothed.

Mr. Passmore, who is twenty-five years of age, describes his mother as a proud and extremely dignified lady of lifty. Miss Cliff was the daughter of her only brother, who died in the Confederate army, leaving a motherless child destitute and among strangers. Mrs. Passmore was then living in Louisvine, and had her liftle niece forwarded to her. She reared her as one of her own children, giving her a thorough education, and giving her to understand as she grew up that she was to be joint heir with the widow's son James to all her wealth. The widow's ward grew into a beautiful woman, but she was of a delicate constitution. It was for the purpose of benefiting her health that the trip to Europe was made.

port to understand as she grew up that she was to be joint heir, with the widow's son James to all her wealth. The widow's ward grew into a beautiful woman, but she was of a delicate constitution. It was for the purpose of benefiting her health that the trip to Europe was made.

The Passmores sailed for America in the early part of 1873. Walter Gunn was to follow them in the interval. However, the isther of the young Englishmen died, and the actounding revelation was made that his aftairs were in such a shape that it was doubtful if the assets of the estate would pay the dobts of the deceased merchant. This proved to be their to £100,000, was left without any available resources. He at once communicated the news of his misortunes to the Passmore and to his affianced, adoing that he intended to come to America and endeavor to retrieve his fortunes. The young man had evidently not for a moment questioned the leality of his American triends, despite his great reverses. He was, therefore, stunned to receive a stately letter from Mrs. Passmore, in which she told him that all further communication with him must cease, and all thought of an alliance between him and her niece be abundoned. Miss Chiff wrote him that, in obedience to the wishes of her aunt and benefactor, she must sever all connection with him.

Gunn, knowing that Miss Chiff was indebted to her aunt for everything she possessed in the world, even to lite itself, quasily perceived how it was that she had been induced to sacriface her own happiness rather than appear ungrateful to her guardian. He therefore resolved at once to sail for this country and try the effect of personal appear on the proud Mrs. Passmore. With James Passmore the young Englishman had maintaned a most cordial correspondence, and had ha fullest sympathy. From him he tearned, just before he sailed, in the latter part of August, 1873, that they were summering at Bedford 'prings, Pa. Landing at New York, young Gunn started a decendence of the trouble his friend pass he received irequent from Mr. A. P. Woodward, formerly of Boston, but latterly of Custer, obtained the following interesting acts relating to a recont massacre about seventy miles north of Fort Laramie. Mr Woodward was accom-panted by T. S. Gates, of St. Louis, and Herman Ganzio, of Milwaukee, the latter wounded and suffering scalped; but until last Friday evening no ocular proof scalped; but until last Friday evening no ocular proof had been produced in this city substantiating that fact. Herman Ganzio's head, from the centre of the forchead back to the crown of the head, is at present one mass of sores. The hair has been cut away by the surgeons in charge at Fort Laramie; but the pear-shaped patch made by the scalping knife is thus made all the more distinct. The poor fellow has been in hospital since the light of April, but his companions have stood manially by him, and re-terrated their intention to see him through to his home. In conversation with the reporter, with whom he had been previously acquainted, Ganzio said, describing his mishap:—

"You see we were coming down into the valley of Hut Creek, on our way to Fort Laramio, when we thought we saw holians coming down the creek to the right. Instead of camping there we thought it sater to water our stock and go on into the hills and make a dry camp in the bushes if we could not make Running Water Creek, where a large camp of freighters were reported.

dry camp in the bushes if we coust not make Ranning Water Creek, where a large camp of freighters were reported.

"I had been sent on ahead up the hill, just where the big stone hut stands, by the road, and with a boy named Kountze, from Omaha, and sat down to wait for the wagons, which were slowly coming up out of the valley. When the wagons reached us I started on alone through the rocks and pine bushes to seek a good camp. A few hundred yarris further on I looked down a ravine to the right and saw five mounted Indians rise across the valley. I started to go back to the train, when at least a dozen indians ran at me out of the brush, and you bet I ran and hollered for help. In a minute more two or three of them shot at me. I left a sharp, stinging pain in my left leg and another in my left shoulder, and I left. Fine they were upon me in a minute, and one of them put his knee in my back, whice another hit me a clip with a club or s but of a gue. I don't know which, as I had no time to think. All I knew was I was being scalped; my hair was held tight. I felt a hot, red-hot, stinging sort of pain all around the top of my head, being form out by the roots, it was too much; I coul m't stand it. I ded—at least I thought I did. But my scalp was saved just as it was being scan of. The boys at the wagons had seen me running; saw the Indians and came on, thirteen of them, and got up just in time to prevent the red devils linishing their work. The Indians, as well as my irrends, thought I was dead. But I came to again and my scalp was ind back again. It was only half torn off, as you will see, and is growing again acid;"

The poor lelow was taken to Fort Laramie and received every attention, and, as soon as he was able, started for his parents' home in Milwarkee. He is the first white min who has level to come home and relind how it leels. The Black Hillers spent yesterday in the city and last evening continued their journey eastward.

THE BROOKLYN BRIDGE.

WILL IT BE BUILT?-A QUESTION OF CONSTI-TUTIONAL LAW INVOLVED.

On Thursday the Board of Apportionment passed the bill appropriating $1,000,000 in bonds to aid the com-pletion of the Brooklyn Bridge, but Comptroller Green missioners had not exceeded their duties and openly defied the act of Congress of March 3, 1869. With a view of disposing of these questions a reporter of the HERALD waited on Mr. Abraham B. Miller, No. 88 Pearl street, one of the most active opposers of the East

BOARD OF POLICE.

THE NEW STEAMBOAT SQUAD-SUMMER HATS AND SUMMER HOLIDAYS-THE ANNUAL PARADE.

The Board of Police met yesterday, General Smith in the chair, and transacted a large amount of business, of which the following is the most important.

Detective Dorsey, who captured Dolan, the murderer of Noe, was relieved from patrol daty in the Twelfts of Noc, was relieved from patrol duty in the Twelft precinct and put on special service as detective of the same precinct.

The annual police parade was fixed for Thursday, the 22d inst., the force to form in Lafayette place. The chief clark was directed to extend invitations to the Mayor and heads of departments to review.

The new steamboat squad was organized with head quarters at the Central Office, and Sergennt Gaslin, of the Thirteenth precinct, in command, the force to consist of forty men, who are to protect the river front. Officers Hays, of the Twenty-seventh precinct and Tink-y, of the First, were transferred to the steam boat squad.

The superintendent was directed to notify the force that, until urther orders, the new summer hats would not be worn, it having been discovered that the color comes off by rubbing. A subsequent examination however, made by Commissioner Nichols, showed that the hats had not been properly a red, having been given out too soon after their manufacture. The Commissioners being satisfied that the hats are fully up to the sample, and in no wise should, the former action was rescinded and the force was satisfied that the distribution would continue.

Arrangements for the regular summer vacation to officers, men and clerks were made. Capta us and clerks get ten days, sergeants live, roundsmen and patrolinea three.
